

City of Orange - Redistricting 2021

One Page Kit

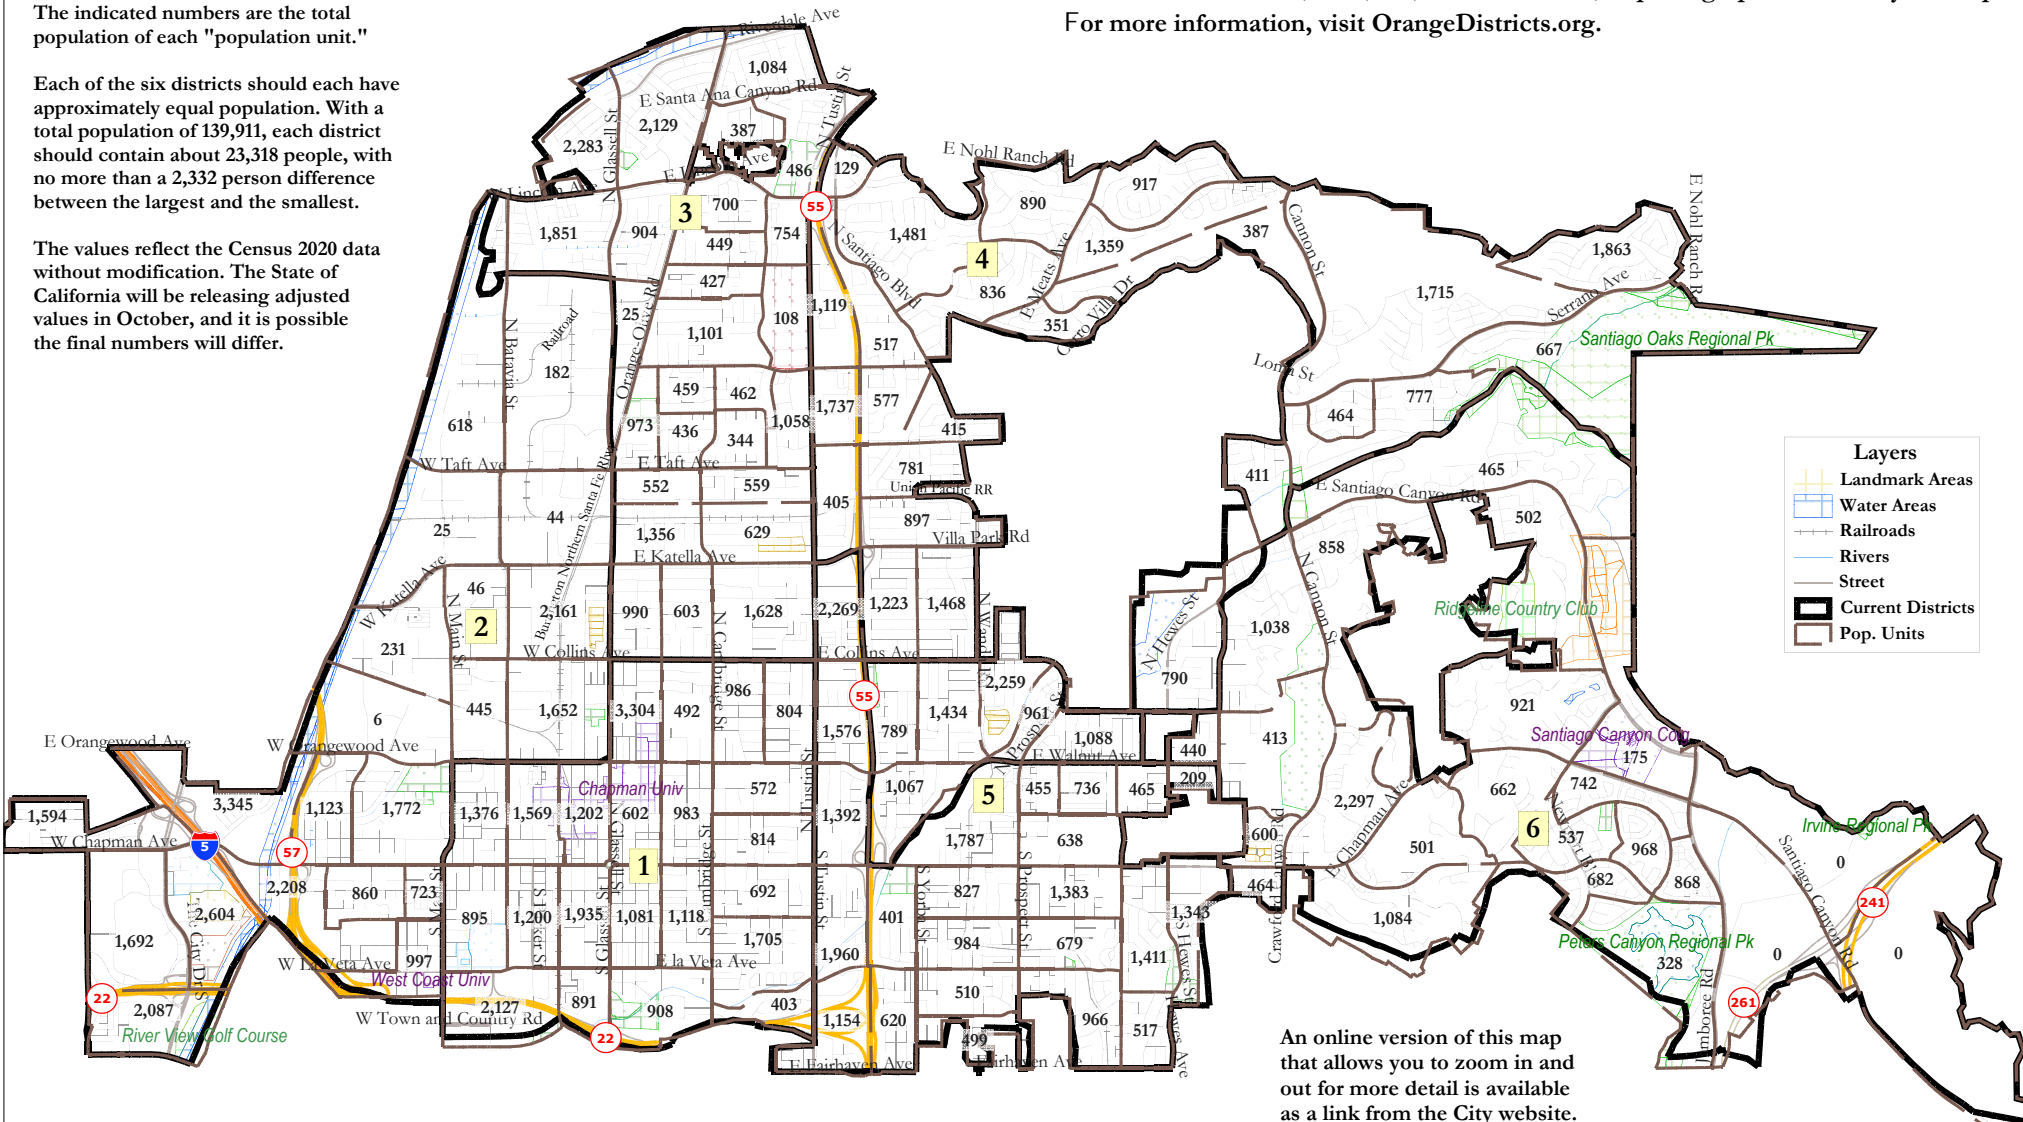

The indicated numbers are the total population of each "population unit."

Each of the six districts should each have approximately equal population. With a total population of 139,911, each district should contain about 23,318 people, with no more than a 2,332 person difference between the largest and the smallest.

The values reflect the Census 2020 data without modification. The State of California will be releasing adjusted values in October, and it is possible the final numbers will differ.
